Remember to always use officially sourced materials to ensure accuracy and reliability. Some commercial websites also offer collections of past papers but carefully verify their authenticity.

Q2: How many past papers should I complete?

A2: There's no magic number, but aiming for at least 3-5 full papers is a good starting point. The more you practice, the more confident you'll become. Focus on quality over quantity; ensure thorough analysis of your answers after each paper.

Q3: What should I do if I consistently score poorly on a particular section?

A3: If you consistently struggle with a specific section, like listening comprehension, focus your revision efforts on that area. Identify the root cause of your difficulties. Is it vocabulary, grammar, or listening skills? Use targeted resources to address these weaknesses.
